

Govind Narayan's Mumbai

An Urban Biography from 1863

Edited and Translated by Murali Ranganathan, with a Foreword by Gyan Prakash

Pub Date: March 2008

Binding: Hardback

Price: £50 / $80

ISBN: 9781843312772

Extent: 407 pages

Size: 234 x 156mm; 9.2 x 6.1

Illustrations: 16+ photographs

Category: HISTORY / Asia / India & South Asia

BISAC code: HISo17000

BIC code: HBJF

Rights Held: World, excluding South Asia (i.e. India, Nepal, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Myanmar, Bhutan and Sri Lanka)

Description

The first ever book on Mumbai written in the Marathi language, this is a historically fascinating and revealing urban biography of nineteenth-century India.

'Essential: Ranganathan has done everyone interested in Indian history, and in Mumbai in particular, a great service by translating and editing Govind Narayan's 1863 masterpiece... An explanatory foreword from noted historian Gyan Prakash rounds out the translation of this indispensable 19th century text.' —S. L. Hoglund, Choice

'Ramanathan's brief biography and bibliography add to the value of this window on nineteenth century Bombay, and his inclusion of photographs of the mid-nineteenth century aptly illustrate some of Govind Narayan's observations. In all, this is a valuable resource for those who wish to explore urban life in mid-nineteenth century India through the eyes of a sharp and knowledgeable observer.' —Janaki Nai, Professor of History at the Centre of Studies in Social Sciences, Kolkata, in 'Studies in History'

'A good read for anyone interested in understanding what makes Bombay Mumbai' —Frederick Noronha, Navhind Times

'Etched in this portrait of death and ruin are the outlines of a remembered city. Its shape peers through the images of the creaking infrastructure, eroded institutions... As a record of Mumbai's nineteenth century history, as a text of urban consciousness, Mumbaiche Varnan is superb.' —from the Foreword by Gyan Prakash, Professor of History at Princeton University

Guiding the reader on a tour of the sights and sounds of an emerging city struggling to shake off colonialism and wrestling with the formation of its own budding identity, Narayan's beguiling book offers descriptions of Mumbai's daily life, its people and its institutions: the parts of the whole that come together to create this diverse and vivacious place. This valuable text is a rare and enthralling glimpse into a fascinating period and place otherwise lost to time.

Readership: A key title for students of South Asian literature and history, and for anyone enthralled by classic travel literature and the emergence of urban biography.

Contents

List of Illustrations; Acknowledgements; Foreword by Gyan Prakash; Introduction; Govind Narayan: A Preliminary Bio-Bibliography; Govind Narayan's Mumbai; Notes to the Text; Biographical Index of Mumbai Men of the Nineteenth Century; Descriptive Index of Mumbai Institutions of the Nineteenth Century; Bibliography; Glossary; Index; Map

About the Editors

Govind Narayan (1815–1865) was one of the leading authors of his age, producing a series of original books that were principally designed to strengthen the moral fibre.

Murali Ranganathan lives and works in Mumbai. After having worked in various jobs, Murali turned to research. Govind Narayan's Mumbai is his first publication.

Gyan Prakash is Professor of History at Princeton University.